Flood Threat In Washington Diminishes

RIVER DROPS SLOWLY FROM DANGER POINT

FDR Makes Personal Tour of Danger Zone, Orders No Expense Spared.

DISASTER AVERTED

Government Employes Have Hard Time Getting to Their Offices.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A major flood disaster in the nation's capital was declared averted today as surging waters of the Potomac river climbed to a flood crest of 26.78 feet and then began slowly to recede.

The crest, which was just short of the record 1936 flood level which caused $10,000,000 in damage, was reached as capital workers made their way to their offices during the early morning hours

Workers, directed by President Roosevelt after a personal tour of the flood areas to "spare no effort" to keep the flood from the capital, toiled through the night erecting sandbag barriers and other safeguards.

The river crest, approximately a foot below the 1936 record, was somewhat less than had been predicted. Later today, the flood waters were receding at a rate of one-tenth of a foot per hour.

Closing of highway bridge, one of several crossing the Potomac, and road washouts and disrupted communications continued to handicap government employes attempting to reach Washington from adjacent Virginia.

A death toll of two for metropolitan Washington, with nine persons missing and feared drowned at nearby Fredericksburg, Va., was chalked up in the wake of the boiling flood which poured down the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers.

Thousands were left homeless in these areas, and Red Cross and other agencies, aided by volunteers, were engaged in caring for them today. Several small communities, at the edges of the capital area, were completely inundated.

The official weather bureau crest was recorded at the bureau's station four miles above the heart of Washington In the suburban Georgetown district of the capital, the flood was unofficially mea-

135 KILLED IN SHIP SINKING

Torpedoing of S.S. Caribou Called Worst American Tragedy of War.

ST JOHN S, Newfoundland—(INS)—Sinking of the S. S. Caribou with the loss of 135 lives today assumed the proportions of the worst tragedy in North American waters since the outbreak of the war as stories were unfolded by 100 survivors of the passenger-laden mail ship

The vessel, bound from North Sydney, Nova Scotia to Portaux-Basque, Newfoundland, was sent to the bottom by a torpedo as it sailed across Cabot straight early last Wednesday. Records indicated that 235 passengers and crew members were aboard, including eight Americans and 50 Canadian soldiers. Civilians mostly comprised families among which were many children.

Bodies of only 36 thus far have been recovered and identified. Among them was John Sheppard, of Auburn, N. Y.

Also listed among the casualties was the Caribou's skipper, Captain B. Tavernor and his two sons. Stanley and Harold who were first and third officers aboard the vessel An entire family, identified thus far only as the "Tappers," including father, mother and two children were listed among the dead. Three members of a family named Strickland also were lost.

Eyewitness accounts of the tragedy related that the vessel

TRIP CURTAILED

Behavior on Train Lands Him In Mansfield Jail.

Priority rights were exercised today by Mansfield police to interrupt Edward Bernardinnelli's trip to Detroit.

Shortly after midnight Special Officer Smaltz of the Pennsylvania railroad called police with the complaint that Edward was behaving in a manner upsetting to other passengers on the train.

Charged with being drunk and disorderly by Patrolmen Glen Adams and John Gilbert, Bernardinnelli today was fined $10 and costs, which he didn't have, when arraigned before Municipal Judge G E. Kalbfleisch.

Consequently, he lingers in city prison until Detroit friends remit the cash.

NEAR SCRAP GOAL

COLUMBUS —(INS)— With only 1,000 tons to go, Franklin county expected to exceed in a few days the 30,000-ton scrap metal goal set by the war production board. The drive is to continue another week.

Hoover Spurs Hunt for Man Linked to Bucyrus Shooting

Spurred by a request from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover police throughout the nation today were pressing their hunt for Elmer Kadens, 32, "one man crime wave" army deserter whose criminal exploits included an attempt to kill a Crawford county deputy sheriff

Hoover, according to Associated Press dispatches described Kadens as a one-man crime factory. The FBI chief said the fugitive had committeed one kidnaping, five rapes, 17 robberies, and 16 automobile thefts.

"He is one of the most dangerous and toughest criminals at large," Hoover asserted.

Kadens abandoned a stolen car at the Point Place service station west of Bucyrus, Sept. 15, when sheriff's officers closed in on him. Under cover of darkness, he fled into a nearby field after exchanging a volley of shots with Deputy Sheriff Ralph Schreck.

Shreck had been tipped off that the man was trying to trade a spare tire for gasoline at the station

The fugitive eluded an all night search through corn fields and farms near Bucyrus

His crimes have spread through three states and latest reports on his whereabouts indicated Kadens had left Chicago Oct 8 on a train bound for Denver, Colo

He is under indictment in Crawford county for assault with intent to kill Other charges are booked against him in Michigan and Illinois

Kadens was a former postoffice employe in Chicago where fellow workers said he was a heavy race horse gambler and that he enlisted in the army to escape his creditors

He went A W O. L. from Camp Grant, Ill., in July.

CODE SHIPMENTS

Aim to Protect Morale of Sailors on Convoy Vessels.

LONDON —(UP)— Convoy shipments en route to danger areas may be labeled in code in the near future, it was reported today, because of the effect on seamen who read on cases and crates that they are going to such places as Malta.

It was understood that the government had promised an investigation and that it might code destination labels so that men aboard ships could not read them.

NEW SYSTEM ON DRAFT OUTLINED

Goble Now Says Married Men Don't Face Immediate Calls to Service.

Richland county selective service registrants who were married before Oct 16, 1940, will not be called for induction immediately even if they have no children, according to a statement issued today by Col Chester W Goble, state selective service director.

Registrants throughout the state in the 3-A classification who have wives but no children and who "maintain a bonafide family relationship in their homes" will not face call for induction in November, Col Goble said.

Clerks of the Richland county boards said they expected to have enough men to fill their calls until December without calling men who were married before the draft law was enacted.

With most single men already called, the three Richland county boards expect to fill their October and November quotas from the ranks of men who were married since the first draft registration in October, 1940, and those who previously were deferred because

FOUR SCHOOLS SETTING PACE IN SCRAP RACE

Salvage Committee and Dealers Start Task of Weighing Up Salvage Collected.

TOTALS READY NEXT WEEK

Stough Says St. Peter's Will Be 'Hard to Beat' But Others Are Close.

Four Mansfield schools—Senior high, St Peter's, Hedges, and Western avenue—were "in the running" today for The News-Journal scrap collection trophy as the county salvage committee and Mansfield scrap dealers went about the task of weighing the huge amount of scrap gathered during the week by pupils. The competition closed last night.

Totals for a few of the schools were expected to be available by tonight, Carl L Stough, county salvage chairman, said. Final results for all the schools will not be tabulated until early next week. The trophy will be awarded then.

Stough predicted today that St Peter's school, with a pile of scrap estimated at more than 50 tons, would be "hard to beat" in the final tabulation

Senior high Hedges and Western avenue had high per pupil collections, however, and it is the per pupil average that will determine the winner.

Some of the small schools may surprise in the final returns Stough said, for they can win with less scrap than the larger schools have collected

The county had a truck on the job today hauling scrap from schools to a junk yard where it will be weighed and credited to the school which collected it

The campaign in the city's schools will continue through next week at the request of the War Production board. Schools have been asked to keep their next week's collections separate from that already collected so that totals for this week only may be obtained.

"There's still a lot of scrap to get in the city," Stough said today "We thought we had most of it a week or two ago, and look at the big collections that have been made by the schools this week"

Supt of Schools W L Miller will award an "S" banner to the school with the largest per pupil collection for the past two weeks and will arrange another award

HAD TO KILL

Retired Railroader Stops Son From Choking Sister.

ALEXANDRIA, Va — (UP) — Thomas U Fairfax, 77-year-old retired railroad engineer, was free today on a coroner's verdict of "justifiable homicide" in the killing of his son Edward, 27.

Fairfax testified at the inquest that he struck his son with a heavy railroad brake stick when he had found him chocking his sister.

"I thought he meant to kill her," he said. "I struck him with my fists. But he wouldn't stop. So I grabbed the brake stick and hit him on the head.

"I didn't want to hurt Eddie He and I were pals. I just did what I had to do"

Battle Reports Say Americans Hold Positions

Germans Gaining At Stalingrad at Cost of 2 Lives Per Minute.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—The Red army made its fourth retreat within 48 hours in northwest Stalingrad today, but the Germans were paying at the rate of almost two lives a minute.

Dispatches from the front emphasized that Russians withdrawals were orderly and comparatively short and that at no point had the Germans attained their objective—a break through to the Volga river

Six thousand Germans were killed on one narrow area in 60 hours—a rate of almost two a minute. At least 151 tanks have been officially reported knocked out, including 27 listed in the noon communique.

On the sector that formerly encompassed the workers' settlement, the Russians repulsed attempts to flank them north and south, dispatches said, and compelled the badly-mauled Germans to regroup On other sectors however the enemy's thrusts were unslackening and the situation growing more acute

The Germans threw two divisions (30,000 men) against the workers' settlement yesterday, and lost at least 3,000 of them and 13 tanks The army organ Red Star said they had filled the gaps in the divisions with fresh forces

Japs Risk Remaining Sea Power in Drive To Win Island Marines Took.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — One of the greatest and perhaps most decisive battles of the Pacific conflict today roared toward a climax in the Solomons with the Japanese obviously gambling their remaining sea power in a supreme effort to crush America's first offensive.

Despite gains made by the Nipponese in early stages of their counter-invasion drive which began six days ago, the outcome was by no means decided and latest battle reports indicated that U. S. Marines and army troops still held the Guadalcanal airfield.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox expressed the attitude of 'official Washington toward the battle when he told newsmen at a press conference that "a real stiff, tough fight" is in progress and that he hopes and expects the Americans to hold their hard-won positions.

Knox emphasized that the outcome has not yet been determined

On the basis of meager reports issued by the navy two recent developments cast grim shadows across American positions:

1 The fact that the enemy was able to move in heavy weapons along with large numbers of troops into Guadalcanal for an assault

HINT: Correspondent Tells Of Constant U. S. Supply Flow

EDITOR'S NOTE - The following dispatch was filed before the battle of the southern Solomons now raging, began But it throws important light upon American preparations for the inevitable show-down with the Japanese.

By WILLIAM TYREE
(UP Staff Correspondent)

AT AN ADVANCED UNITED STATES AIR BASE, In the South Pacific, Oct 7.—(UP)—(Delayed)—The war in the South Pacific has developed into a huge battle of supply and reinforcement.

Major emphasis is on the marine positions in the Solomon islands but the string of Japanese-occupied islands extendings to the north is involved

Though the Japanese on Guadalcanal island have been reinforced, a large force of marine raiders recently left a secret base in the Pacific and proceeded direct into the Solomons with full battle kit

The recent visits to this area of Adm Chester W Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet and Lieut Gen Henry H Arnold, commander in chief of the Army Air Force indicated the emphasis which the United States plans to put on its Solomon islands operations.

Nimitz inspected vital supply routes as well as the fighting front on Guadalcanal island.

The marines on Guadalcanal went into the brush last night and captured guns of 75-millimeter (3-inch) type, of American make

The Japanese probably captured them on Bataan peninsula in the Philippines.

The presence of these guns on Guadalcanal indicated the fanatical determination of the Japanese to retake the Solomons if possible.

Army, navy and marine corps planes are up in the cloudy sky daily, patroling and fighting

To cover 1,000 miles on combat and search missions is now routine.

Sometimes the clouds pile up to 40,000 feet and even to 50,000 feet, and extend down to the water edge

Lieut W W Thompson, Little Rock, Ark stood beside his fortress on the runway, cursing the rain He had just put it down after an all day mission

"Give me a flock of Zeros on my tail anytime rather than this," he said. "We can shoot it out with them. But the weather—that's the real enemy out here."

WAITING: French Eager for Opportunity to Tackle Germans

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The United States government, it was learned today, has been informed by the French national committee that an overwhelming majority of the people of France are eagerly awaiting the opportunity to rise against the Germans the moment a second front is established in western Europe.

This information has been conveyed to Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles by Andrew Philip commissioner for the interior and labor of Gen Charles De Gaulle's French national committee.

Philip, who was a leader of the underground movement in France until he was forced to flee to England last August, has arrived in Washington to acquaint the American government with the efforts which are being made to prepare the French people for the day of liberation.

In his conference with Welles, Philip is understood to have emphasized the necessity of organizing the various underground movements in France and preventing separate groups of patriotic Frenchmen from risking revolt against the Germans until the Allies are ready to strike

In a statement to the press, Philip said that today "one hundred per cent of the people in the occupied war zone of France and ninety per cent of the people in the unoccupied zone are against the Vichy regime and favor resistance to the Axis."

"French resistance began at the end of 1940," he said. "At first it was confined to small groups organized in a rather haphazard way. It was only in the summer of 1941 that these various movements drew together and finally began to coordinate their activities.

It Was All Right To Kill the Coon But Not to Skin It

It will cost John Spayde, farm worker, $21 60 for a coonskin cap he won't be able to wear this winter but it may not be so bad, since he can't do any hunting.

According to C I Kimmel, county game warden, Hugh Anderson, manager of Maxwalton farms near Lucas, legally shot a racoon which had raided his henhouse of 20 fowl.

Spayde, an employe, illegally removed the skin from the carcass, Kimmel says, his affidavit in municipal court charging possession of a racoon skin out of season—Nov. 15 to Jan. 15.

After a valiant search of the state game laws covering the situation, Judge G. E Kalbfleisch today imposed a fine of $15 and costs and ordered Spayde to surrender his hunting license for an indefinite period.

HANGS HIMSELF

Ohio Boy Dies Accidentally While Playing Cowboy Game.

WAUSEON—(UP)—Jimmy Merrill, 11, hung himself accidentally while playing cowboy with a lariat on his father's farm near Swanton late yesterday.

Sheriff Lester Irwin said the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Merrill, had been playing and that "a misjudgment left his feet just inches short of the ground, with the rope suspended from a low limb."

BOOM CONTINUED

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

(One of a series by Robbin Coons, Hollywood columnist, who is touring the country.)

OUTSIDE NEW YORK—There's nothing so reassuring as a little fragment of certainty in these uncertain times. Like knowing where you are not going.

Coons

Before me is a treasured invitation, received back in Hollywood from a New York hostelry we shall call the Swank (no adv.).

"On your visits to New York," it begins, "why not follow the custom of so many distinguished Hollywood guests (huh?) by making your address the gracious and luxurious Swank? . . .

"Arrangements at Swank," it assures, "are most versatile and are available ensuite from one to five or more rooms with appointments which conform to your plans for living or entertaining . . ." (just the thing for that beer-bust you've been putting off so long!)

"Service is suave and thoughtful with no hint of commercialism in the regime . . ." (Now that's nice. They're in it for fun, huh? Art for art's sake, as M-G-M's lion always says . . .)

"Your comfort and privacy are given every consideration by a personnel as well trained as your own staff of attendants" . . . Egad, what an outlook! Hasn't the gentleman heard? There's a war. Out our way the staff—all one of her—heard the call and is now happily riveting in an aircraft factory. So I should come to New York to wash my own dishes?

"Perhaps you feel"—this epistle fascinates me—"that this summer you should keep on the conservative side as regards tariffs. Here, too, Swank accords with your patriotic objectives, for rates are never extravagant . . ."

Well, that's about all. Here I've been a patriot all my life and didn't know it. But like every small-town Joe in the world I'm still not reassured. Especially when they call the bad news a "tariff," especially when they don't define what they mean by extravagant." Extravagant for me—or for that other "distinguished Hollywood guest" named Louis B., or Dietrich, or Gloria Glammer? They've got to make it clearer.

That's why, with regret, I've got to pass up the gentleman's invitation. That's why, I guess, I'll be having that beer-bust, if any, in some quiet little joint where they speak American you can understand. I think it'll be down in the Bowery where reliable sources tell me there hasn't been a distinguished Hollywood guest in years, and where there's nothing horrifying or too, too ill-bred about calling a buck (dollar) by name.

OPA RULES FOR TIRE CARE AND INSPECTION SET

The More Gas Motorist Gets, The More Often He Must Have Car Checked.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Motorists with tires not "legally acquired" will lose their gasoline ration books, the Office of Price Administration has disclosed in announcing details of a nation-wide program for periodic inspection of tires.

The five tires listed by the motorist by serial number in connection with rationing, plus tires acquired through rationing certificates, will be the only "legal" tires.

First inspection for all passenger car tires must be made between Dec. 1 and Jan. 31, 1943, with commercial vehicle inspection starting Nov. 15.

After the initial inspection, passenger car owners with the basic "A" ration book will be required to have their tires inspected every four months at official OPA inspection stations.

Passenger car owners with books above the basic "A" must have their tires inspected every two months. Commercial vehicle tires must be inspected every two months or every 5,000 miles, whichever comes first.

OPA said official inspectors would be allowed to charge a maximum fee of 25 cents per vehicle in inspections where no tires were removed from wheel or rim.

OPA said neither private passenger automobiles nor commercial vehicles would be certified for continued operation when tires needed repairs or when mechanical faults caused unnecessary tire wear.

The inspector will note the serial number of tires and compare them with the numbers entered in the owner's records.

"Discrepancies will be reported to the local board," OPA said, "and if the board's records do not show the owner has been issued a rationing certificate for tires since the origmal registration numbers were set down an explanation will be called for.

Unless the owner can show the tires were legally acquired since he registered, his gasoline ration book will be revoked."

Tires worn to the recapping point must be removed for a complete inspection. If a tire is found to be suitable for recapping, the inspector will fill out a form enabling the owner to apply immediately to his rationing board. The inspector must indicate in his report when tires are worn beyond recapping.

When a tire has become unfit for recapping "through no fault of the owner," the inspector may recommend a replacement.

STILL SKIDDING

County Sales Tax Receipts Down $3,982 Over 1941.

Sales tax receipts in Richland county for the week ending Oct. 3, were still on the skids, dropping to $13,245 as compared with $17,227 in the corresponding week last year, a $3,982 decline.

Collections in the county for the first nine months of this year amounted to $405,581, a drop of $138,828 from the figures for a similar period in 1941.

State-wide receipts for the first week of October were down $124,924 although tax collected on purchases of food and clothing showed increases. The biggest declines were in sale sof automobiles, furniture, and building materials, State Treasurer Don Ebright's report showed.

GANGSTER HUNT TURNS TO EAST

Authorities Check on Report Sweetheart of One of Mob Was Seen In Buffalo.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—Search for the escaped Illinois convicts, Roger Touhy and Basil Banghart, who with five others shot their way out of Stateville prison, Oct. 9, centered today in the Buffalo, N. Y., area.

A report that Mae Blalock, sweetheart of Banghart, was seen in Buffalo, spurred the search there following the announcement that the desperadoes used guns smuggled into the prison to effect the break.

Police have been searching for Miss Blalock since shortly after the delivery.

Canadian and American officials were conducting the search on both sides of the border.

Early in the year the Blalock woman was indicted in Buffalo on charegs of conspiracy to defraud. She gained her freedom on bond, went to her home in Knoxville, Tenn., but dropped from sight three weeks before the break.

Touhy and the others were long term prisoners and were considered some of the most dangerous in the country.

For the fourth consecutive day Warden Edward M. Stubblefield of Stateville refused to allow newspaper men within the prison walls.

It was said that questioning of a former prison employe, Joseph Benard, 32, had revealed he had delivered messages to prisoners but he denied having contacted Touhy, Banghart or the others in the break.

SCHOOL HEADS GET HINTS ON WAR'S CHANGED IN EDUCATION

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Forging of a hard-bitten school curriculum in which high school students learn "math" so they can fly warplanes and second-grade youngsters can help police prices today occupied the attention of delegates to Ohio's seventh annual educational conference.

"No pressure groups in your community will complain if you teach Scott's 'Ivanhoe' and Vergil's 'Aeneid' but these things won't win the war," Mrs. Dorotha Marlowe of the office of price administration, told school executives yesterday.

Even the smallest children, she said, can be taught in gentle, simple terms what the war means — why they shouldn't scuff their shoes or twist off buttons, and why they should report the man at the corner store if he increases the price of pencils and writing tablets.

The speakers visualized schools where children will learn global geography and measure distances in hours of flight instead of miles; where trigonometry problems are examples of aerial navigation; where industrial arts classes will help devise equipment for pre-flight training courses and use them in such courses the next hour; where physics and chemistry courses will fit youths for work in war industry.

On the economic front, Miss Helen Gregory of the OPA told educators that schools are greatly threatened by inflation because of the loss of revenue from taxation.

"Since 1939 inflation already has cost the country $35,000,000,000 more than the cost to the United States of the last war," she said. "School children must be taught how they can help the community to control rising prices. The curriculum in reltaion to economics, family life and political science must be reconsidered to do this."

CLAIM FILED

Raleigh Avenue Residents Ask $1,500 Damages.

A Claim for $1,500 damages was filed today with city council by Mrs. Anna B. Zerby, co-owner with Charles N. Zerby of property abutting East Raleigh avenue.

According to information given Robert Black, city clerk, R. O. Darling and Son, contractors, cut away an embankment in the process of constructing curbs and gutters, which obliterates a driveway into the Zerby garage.

Acting on a petition Sept. 22 signed by various property owners on the thoroughfare council authorized the improvement which includes grading and graveling. The petition was not signed by the Zerbys.

City officials today were of the opinion that the matter might be adjusted by cutting a new drive for the Zerbys and moving their garage to fit the resultant situation.

MOVIE-STRUCK GIRL CHARGES PARTY ASSAULT

Says Actor Promised to Get Her Job; Three Others Are Also Accused.

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES — Actor Errol Flynn, who has won many a fair maiden's heart on the silver screen but wasn't able to make a success of his own marriage, today was defendant in a rape charge involving a 18-year-old stage-struck girl, who said he told her he "was very fond of me and would get me a job."

A complaint, issued on instructions from District Attorney John F. Dockweiler, alleged that on the night of Sept. 27 Flynn raped Betty Hansen of Lincoln, Neb., during a party at the fashionable Bel Air home of Fred McEvoy, wealthy British sportsman and former Olympic bobsled champion.

"He told me he would call me the next night," Juvenile Officer Dorothy Pulas quoted the girl as saying, "I waited for three nights, but he never called."

Father of a 17-month-old son, Flynn, who was divorced last April by Screen Actress Lily Damita, was released under $1,000 bail pending preliminary hearing Oct. 23.

"I can't understand what all this is about," said the 33-year-old actor in denying the charge. "I hardly spoke to the girl, and certainly I did not harm her."

The complaint against Flynn was signed by Mrs. Jack Marsden, a sister, with whom Miss Hansen lived. It also charged three youthful film studio employes with making subsequent morals attacks upon the girl.

Listed as Armand Knapp, 18, Morrie Black, 22, and Joseph Geraldi, 20, they are in custody.

Under California law, a sex offense against a girl under 18, regardless of consent, constitutes rape.

Policewoman Kulas said Miss Hansen told her she was working in a drug store when Knapp offered to introduce her to Flynn, then took her to the McEvoy party.

"Flynn began showing me attention," Miss Pulas quoted the girl as saying. "He told me he was very fond of me and would get me a job.

"He asked me to go upstairs with him. . . . Later we went back downstairs and he told me he would call me the next night, but he never called."

A Mansfield girl who is a regular sender of soldier's mail overseas has struck upon a sure-fire method of getting letters through to her brother in India. Not that they didn't reach him before, but it seems the letters have gone round-about before finally arriving at their destination. She made 10 carbon copies of the last letter she wrote and mailed all of them within a short space of time. So far the brother has received five or six of them and while they don't contain any new information they are all joyously welcomed as "letters from home."

Two Christmas cards mailed Dec. 2, 1941, from the Mansfield postoffice were returned to their sender, Mrs. I. M. Palmer, 342 West Fourth street, after a long hard trip to Germany and back. Last year Mrs. Palmer sent these cards to two of her friends in Weisbaden, Germany, whom she stayed with while visiting in Europe several years ago. But yesterday, the cards unopened except for censorship, were again in the sender's hands and on the envelopes was marked "Return to sender —service suspended." Mrs. Palmer said that she hadn't received any cards from her friends for two years and was "very surprised about the whole thing" since the United States and Germany weren't at war in 1941.

Consider Offer Of Reward for Abductor Arrest

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Franklin county commissioners were expected to discuss today the possibility of offering a reward for information leading to the capture of the armed woman who abducted eight-months-old Daniel Scanlon Monday from his crib at St. Ann's infant asylum.

Meanwhile, detectives were attempting to locate a witness who saw the kidnap car as it left St. Ann's and would be able to identify it. A nun at the asylum was believed to be the only person to glimpse the car as it sped away with the missing baby, but dust and smoke prevented her identifying the make or seeing the license number, police said.

The baby was stolen while his mother, Jane Scanlon, 17, an employe of the institution, was in the basement eating lunch.

plunged to the bottom within a few minutes after a torpedo was sent crashing into her middle. Many of those reported dead were killed in the explosion which followed when the torpedo drove home.

Officers among those surviving reported that the vessel was torpedoed without warning. Not a single survivors saw the submarine which fired the lethal missile.

Most of those who died were caught below decks when the torpedo struck. Others raced topside as screaming mothers called for life preservers for their children while boats and life rafts were being lowered.

But the ship settled quickly after the first list and scores of bobbing heads dotted the water as decks became awash.

Rescue vessels rushed to the scene and their prompt arrival was credited with the saving of many lives. About 900 bags of mail were lost.

Patrol boats and fishing schooners were still searching the vicinity of the sinking today but no additional survivors have been found as yet.

Cabot Strait lies due east of the mouth of the St. Lawrence river where U-boat activity has been reported heavy in recent months. In the river itself, five Allied vessels have been torpedoed since the outbreak of the war.

NEW SYSTEM ON DRAFT OUTLINED

of minor physical defects but who are eligible under the less rigid regulations.

Selective service officials in Washington announced recently that men who have children born since last Sept. 8 will not be deferred because of dependency. A number of them face immediate call if they were married after Oct. 16, 1940, or when their induction was imminent.

House Vote Due Today On Drafting Teeners

WASHINGTON — (AP) — In a mixed atmosphere of reluctance and readiness to dip down into the 'teen age bracket for fighting men, the house assembled today to act upon drafting youths of 18 and 19 years for military service, with passage of the measure by nightfall apparently assured.

Ten months to the day after the minimum selective service age limit was lowered to 20, the nation's lawmakers moved swiftly toward meeting the demand of military chiefs for emphasis on youth in building an army with a planned strength of 7,500,000 in 1943.

Amid repeated expressions of regret that President Roosevelt and his war aides had found the step necessary, there were confident predictions from house leaders and Chairman May (D-Ky) of the military committee that the bill would pass overwhelmingly.

Meantime, the senate—a step behind the house in the drive to speed the legislation to the chief executive's desk—received from its military committee approval of a bill differing only in minor aspects from that pending in the house.

WOMAN FARMER FOUND KILLED

Sheriff Finds Evidence of Assault Before Slaying.

IRONTON —(UP)— Sheriff Fred Sanders said today that Miss Pearlie Zoe Brammer, 63-year-old Proctorville, O., landowner, was beaten and criminally assaulted before she was killed at her home.

Miss Brammer's body was found yesterday on the Lawrence county farm she has operated since the death of her father, Henry H. Brammer, in 1926. Her body was found in the barn 50 yards from the house.

Sanders said the house had been ransacked. She was believed by some to have kept large sums of money in the home. Her farm consisted of 98 acres.

JAPAN RISKING REMAINING SEA POWER IN FIGHT

Guadalcanal Battle Rages to Climax; Americans Still Holding, Say Reports.

that began with a shelling by field artillery.

2. The concentration 260 miles northwest of Guadalcanal of a large number of enemy ships bent on supporting Nipponese naval units which spearheaded the attack against the Americans.

Fresh U. S. counter-moves by land, sea and air were anticipated, however, and the scope and effectiveness of any such action could change the picture in a matter of hours.

The first report that American forces were doing more than trying to hold their gains with forces on the sea came in a navy communique which disclosed action by U. S. torpedo boats.

The "PTS" made their appearance off Guadalcanal on the night of Oct. 14-15 and scored one probable hit on a Jap cruiser during an attack on enemy vessels which were shelling U. S. positions for the second time.

Whether these small but powerful boats would be backed up by units of America's Pacific fleet was known only to the high command, but such action was considered inevitable by navy men if the United States hopes to win.

There has been no report of activity by America's fleet units since a task force of cruisers and destroyers blasted a Japanese warship flotilla in a night naval battle off Guadalcanal Oct. 12 while the enemy was attempting to land reinforcements.

Also, no action has been reported since that date by army flying fortress bombers which had been carrying out an aerial offensive under navy command against Jap bases in the northern Solomons.

According to war experts, outcome of the present conflict is much more vital to the Japanese war effort than it is to America. Here is how they analyze the situation:

Should the Americans lose Guadalcanal, Japan would be in a position to stab at supply lines to Australia but still would have to overpower U. S. bases at Port Moresby, New Caledonia, the New Hebrides and the Fijis to win a decisive victory.

If the Japanese should lose the present conflict and suffer further naval losses, the balance of seapower undoubtedly would pass to the United States and the Nipponese positions in most of the southwest Pacific soon would become untenable.

RATION SLICES GAS TAX FUNDS

Ohio Sees Loss of 40 Per Cent in Revenue Next Year.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Rationing will cut Ohio's gasoline tax collections "about 40 per cent and certainly not less than 35 per cent" next year, State Highway Director Hal G. Sours estimates.

Sours said the anticipated drop below 1941 would cost the highway department approximately $9,820,000 in revenues.

The motor vehicle fuel tax yielded $43,398,768 last year, of which the highway department received 56.25 per cent or about $24,400,000. The department does not share in the state's one-cent liquid fuel tax.

Six Soldiers Meet Death in Plane Plunge in South.

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—Army officials today were investigating the crash of a medium bomber near the Dallas-Tarrant county boundary which killed six soldiers.

Identification of the plane's personnel was not completed, according to the commanding officer at Love field who said the plane was on a routine mission.

GERMANS GAIN AT STALINGRAD IN NEW DRIVE

Russians Again Exact Heavy Toll as They Are Forced To Give Up Ground.

line, street and stone must be a fortress! Smash the attacks of the bloody Nazis!" Red Star exhorted the defenders.

The government organ Izvestia said the retreat from the settlement had been carried out with the best possible order, everything the Germans might find useful having been destroyed.

The most violent battles raged along the new Soviet positions, where the defenders were fighting with their backs to the Volga.

Swarms of dive bombers darkened the sky—they made 1,000 sorties yesterday—but dispatches said their effectiveness did not correspond to the enormous loads of bombs they dropped, because the Russians were so well covered and camouflaged.

There was no attempt in Moscow to conceal the gravity of the situation, in the 54th day of Stalingrad's siege and almost that many days of around the clock battle, but the Russians noted with confidence the most incredible feats of the defenders.

On individual sectors, Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's counter-offensive above Stalingrad progressed, firmly and persistently deepening a wedge in the German left flank, dispatches said. The latest Russian success there was the capture of fortified positions along an entire sector.

The Russians continued to hammer back, with big enemy losses, German attacks on the Mozdok area of the Eastern Caucasus, aimed at the nearby Grozny oil fields.

A slight German advance, the first in days, was admitted southeast of the Novorossisk naval base, on the Black sea in the western Caucasus where the Germans were trying to drive down the coast to other ports.

The Germans paid "huge losses" for the advance, the Russian communique said, and 300 more were killed in other attacks.

Russian detachments penetrated Finnish positions on a sector of the Karelian front and captured a strong point in the rear. The Finns counter-attacked and 200 were killed. At the end of the day, the Russians blew up pillboxes and returned to their own lines, lugging 18 captured machine guns and other booty, the noon communique said.

Finds Reds In Better Position Than In '41

MOSCOW —(U.P.)— President Michael I. Kalinin reviewing 15 months of the war, said today that he considered the situation more favorable now than last year despite Russia's enormous territorial losses.

(The 15th month of the Russo-German war ended Sept. 22.)

"The Red army is battling more firmly and more skillfully, as demonstrated at Stalingrad and Mozdok," he said.

He reported that Russian industry, which the Germans boasted, they had captured, was expanding daily and increasing production so that the army could not complain of lack of arms as in the case of the first World war.

Kalinin added that the arms industry especially was progressing constantly, improving designs of planes, tanks and guns and intensifying firing power.

COUSINS MEET IN A FOXHOLE

They'd Never Seen Each Other Before Hiding Together.

HEADQUARTERS, United States Marines, Guadalcanal Island, Oct. 4—(U.P.)—(Delayed)—First Lieut. Dan L. Gaede, Columbus, navigator of an army flying fortress, heard an air raid siren tonight and dived into a fox hole.

Bumping into a navy officer, he offered his hand and said: "Sorry, my name's Dan Gaede."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—help make still further reduction in traffic accidents.

Mining of gold is to be stopped—and it might be a good idea to use up some of the silver surplus before any more is mined.

Have you forgotten anything? Did you remember, for instance, that this is "the sweetest day of the year"—which is intended as a hint that you should take home a box of candy.

An Obligation To Keep Bonds

BECAUSE a small percentage of war bond purchasers have cashed their bonds soon after buying them, the suggestion is occasionally heard that bonds should not be subject to redemption until after the war.

This, however, would be out of accord with the government idea of repaying such loans at any time after sixty days from date of purchase—assuming that bonds would be cashed only by persons in dire distress.

Canada's national war finance committee puts it this way: "There is no law which says you cannot sell your victory bonds. But there is a moral promise to make a loan to your country for the war period. To evade that undertaking through sale, at this time of great need, is to welsh—it is the denial of an obligation which you admitted and accepted by your act of purchase. Don't be a welsher."

That goes equally for the small percentage of Americans who dispose of war savings bonds or stamps shortly after buying them—except in case of extreme emergency.

Are You Familiar With These Names?

EIGHT names with which the people of Richland county are assumed to be familiar have appeared in print recently and continue to be of current interest for a particular reason.

As you read the following names please try to place each of the persons in association with a reason why they are now before the public:

Charles C. Lemert, Robert B. Putnam, T. J. Duffy, Charles S. Bell, Willis Woehrle Metcalf, Edward C. Turner, William C. Dixon, Roy H. Williams, C. H. Huston, G. E. Kalbfleisch.

How many of the names did you recognize, and with what did you associate each?

All of these names are on the non-partisan judicial ballot which voters will receive at the November election, six being candidates for the state supreme court, two for the court of appeals bench in this district, and two for common pleas judge in Richland county.

Unless voters know something about each of these men, and their qualifications, it will be difficult to intelligently express preference. While nominations for judicial offices are made at party primaries there is no party designation on the judicial ballot.

Solving Transportation Problems

ANNOUNCEMENT that Mansfield is the best-organized Ohio city in the matter of transportation for war workers is a tribute to the promptness and thoroughness with which the local committee, headed by C. K. Smaltz, entered upon this task, and the public co-operation that has been given.

In this, as in everything else which involves group action, leadership is a vital factor, and it is gratifying to note that in this instance leadership was placed in capable hands.

Much remains to be done in providing a maximum of transportation with minimum use of motor equipment, private and public, but an excellent start has been made and plans for further action indicate that the date for gasoline rationing will find Mansfield in admirable position to meet all essential transportation requirements.

Religious Freedom's Broad Scope

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY prevails to such extent in this country that even the smallest sects are protected in the right to think as they choose in matters of conscience, faith and doctrine.

This was exemplified in the case of the late John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City, near Chicago, an erratic leader of a religious sect that was much in the public eye during the early years of this century.

The mantle of Dowie, self-styled "Elijah II," fell upon Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who died a few days ago, but who, for a number of years held together the colony of which he became the spiritual and temporal leader.

Voliva's chief claim to prominence outside his own religious group came from the avowal of belief that the earth is flat and the frequency of his predictions that the world would come to an end on a stated date.

Nothing happened in the matter of the world ending at any of the times mentioned by Voliva, nor was the roundness of the earth questioned by any considerable number of people—yet Voliva and his followers were protected in the privilege of thinking as they chose, as has been the case with other groups that center, from time to time, around the magnetic leadership of some one man.

Religious intolerance, as sometimes practiced in other countries in earlier times and even to this day, may be credited with much of the determination to hold America free from any such intrusion on individual rights—and ours has become a greater country because this is one of its basic principles.

Bismarck's Wisdom Ignored

THE GREATEST German statesman in the past hundred years is without doubt Bismarck. Even Hitler recognizes his supremacy. Yet Hitler has not paid enough attention to Bismarck's wisdom.

In 1885, fourteen years after the Franco-Prussian war which gave Germany Alsace-Lorraine, Bismarck remarked, out of his years of trying to govern the new possessions: "We have taken too much French territory. Could we aspire to conquests at the expense of France, Belgium or Holland? They would be recalcitrant nations. Looking all round our frontiers, every gain would be a loss, every increase a cause for weakness."

Within the next months and years Bismarck's words will ring more and more true.

Remember to ask for war savings stamps.

UNCLE SAM DECIDES TO TAKE A LOOK

Battle for Guadalcanal Provides Trial of Land Fighting Strength

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE BATTLE for Guadalcanal apparently is furnishing the first big test of Americans against Japanese in land combat since Bataan.

MacArthur's men on Bataan and Corregidor showed what they could do against overwhelming odds. Since the Japanese are apparently out to re-take Guadalcanal at any cost, it is safe to assume they will try to land enough men on Guadalcanal to overwhelm us by weight of numbers.

They had 7,000 men remaining on the island after the American occupation of the airfield. Since then they increased the number to 12,000, but that figure was as of last week. They have made landings since then under the protection of warships and planes, so that the number may have been increased to 20,000 or more.

The Japanese are estimated to have around 50,000 men available in Rabaul and various islands of the northern Solomons. Because of the short distances, these can be moved in small boats and landed at various points under cover of darkness. It would be typically Japanese to swarm in like ants in scattered flotillas, heedless of losses, in the certainty that some would get through.

Of the size of the American holding force, nothing has been disclosed. We know only that soldiers have joined the marines in defense of the island. It is to be assumed that the Pacific command does not regard these men as "expendables" and that we are not sending a boy to do a man's job.

Hence one of the biggest land battles of the Pacific war may be in progress. Numbers are not to be campared with the astronomical figures usual in accounts of European battles, particularly in Russia. In the South Sea Islands, 20,000 on a side is a lot of men.

Land action apparently is destined to be the deciding factor in the struggle for possession of Guadalcanal, but there will be bitter air fighting and possibly a major naval engagement.

Extent of the Japanese effort suggests the possibility that the main battle fleet is somewhere in the vicinity. Our naval communiques leave many gaps to be filled in, but it is assumed that at least one battleship is nearby.

THE PRESENT whereabouts of the United States fleet, or task force, has not been mentioned in the latest communiques. Presumably our warships are based at Tulagi, only 25 miles away. A combined surface and air assault on the Japanese fleet is a possibility.

If the Japanese succeed in retaking Guadalcanal, they will have regained the airfield which they built and never got to use. That would be a distinct advantage and would put them again closer to the islands which flank our supply lines to Australia.

However, it has been disclosed that our forces are in the New Hebrides and Fiji islands as well as new Caledonia. If the Japanese regain Guadalcanal, they still will find formidable obstacles barring their way southward.

'All Out' or All In

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SEEMS to me it's time we sat down and did a little realistic thinking about this war bond campaign. There have been miles of words written on it already. But precious few of them have gotten under our skin.

Practically all such articles try to coax us along by saying what heroes we'll be if we "give our all" for our country. And we've been coaxed, petted and flattered for so long that we actually believe this. So we go out and buy a $25 bond and imagine we're Washington at Valley Forge. We aren't.

The simple truth is this: We are not "giving our all" when we buy a $25 or a $100 or a $10,000 bond. Nor are we heroes. We are a nation with its back against the wall. Whether we know it or not, we are fighting for our lives, and the odds are very far from being in our favor.

WE CAN BE LICKED AND WE WILL BE LICKED UNLESS WE COMPLETELY CHANGE OUR LINE OF THOUGHT AND ACTION.

As far as the cash is concerned we are not "giving" it. We are investing it at the fattest rate of interest in our history. But if we don't invest it, it's a cinch we'll never get anything back, including our pants.

This war is no longer a squabble in our neighbor's back yard. It is mauling at our own doorsills. It is ready to tear out our own hearts and wreck everything we have considered decent and desirable. And we'll have to hustle like the devil—and I mean like the devil—to save ourselves. For, believe it or not, the devil is an extremely competent hustler.

It comforts us, of course, to say that our enemies are stupid, brutal, fanatical, diseased with success, but it won't buy us anything. However we may despise them, the record proves that said enemies are probably the most efficient, intelligent and well-trained crew of cut-throats that have ever set out to go places—and have gotten to most of them, pronto.

Nor is this any time for spiritual complacency. Most of us believe we'll win because God is backing our principles. We are honestly amazed because Hitler and Hirohito do not agree with this pleasant, wishful thinking. But it just happens that Hitler and Hirohito are quite as sincere in their ideas as we are in ours.

They can even present some disconcerting arguments to prove that democracy hasn't been the 100 per cent blessing which we claim. And they are as deeply convinced that God is behind their blood-stained lash as we are in claiming that He is on the side of the Star-Spangled Banner.

THESE ARE HARSH FACTS, BUT IF YOU WANT TO SAVE YOUR HIDE AND YOUR COUNTRY, YOU'D BETTER BELIEVE THEM—AND QUICK. CUT OUT THE HEROICS! STOP THINGING THAT YOU'RE DOING UNCLE SAM A BIG FAVOR BY LOANING A PORTION OF YOUR WAD. THIS IS NO TIME TO CRITICIZE AND WHIMPER AND HAGGLE—OR JUST GIVE "WHAT YOU CAN AFFORD." THERE'S A SWORD AT YOUR THROAT! YOUR LIFE IS LITERALLY AT STAKE. WE MUST FACE THE GRIM TRUTH THAT UNLESS WE GO ALL OUT, WE'LL BE ALL IN. START GIVING - NOW!

TODAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 17, 1777, marked the turning point of the Revolutionary war, as a result of the surrender of British General John Burgoyne at Saratoga. In December, the news reached Paris, where Benjamin Franklin had been trying for a year to enlist the aid of the French on our side, and this assurance of the eventual success of the American cause resulted in French recognition of the United States as an independent power.

Timely Editorial

Men and Women First.

When the time comes, American children will do everything that is asked of them. But before they are called upon to divide their time between school rooms and factory buildings, slacker adults must be forced to go to work.

A man who works six or even eight hours a day can hardly fail to be shamed by the suggestion that the situation is so critical that his children of school age must take war jobs.

The 40-hour week will have to go. Women will have to take men's jobs. Non-essential business will have to be abandoned. College students will have to postpone their studies. Children may have to go to work, but not until their elders have set them an example. —Akron Beacon Journal.

As Others See It

This Explains It.

Trace the run on coffee back to its beginning, and it turns out to be a Washington job-holder thinking aloud. As the White House has intimated, these fellows should be seen, not overheard. - Detroit News.

Sensible Attitude.

Milwaukee school authorities are not going to get all stirred up over the few children of a religious sect who refuse to salute the flag. They'll just keep the children busy at something else and thus decline to dignify their refusal—which may help to create a new respect for the flag.—Kansas City Star.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Congress Moves to Draft Youths After President Calls for Action

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

SINCE two and a quarter million youths between 18 and 20 registered for future selective service drafting back in June, congress has been seeing ghosts. In Washington where, the president discovered on his nationwide tour, the country's disposition to sacrifice to win this war was so badly misjudged, lowering the draft age from 20 to 18 was treated as political dynamite.

Most congressmen hedged on the subject, hoping to get by the November elections without disturbing their home-and-mother vote. In his fireside chat last week the president pulled the fuse out and congress immediately started kicking the dud around.

"The flower of the nation" is what draft board chairmen like to call the young draftees. An essential for victory, the president termed them in asking for the 18-year-old draft because "all of our combat units that go overseas must consist of young, strong men who have had thorough training." The element that will make ours a youthful army, hence the best army possible, War Secretary Stimson called them.

The secretary of war further disclosed that 1943 plans call for a superbly-drilled army of 7,500,000, which may mean the weeding-out of many men in their 30's or physically unable to cope with the rigors of modern warfare.

Stirred to action after the president took the responsibility on himself—"if the commander-in-chief says he needs them," said Kentucky's Representative May, "I will co-operate in every way and I am sure the congress will go along"—congress pushed for immediate action.

Next bugaboo scheduled in this election year is manpower regulation. Voluntary control of manpower for U. S. war industries is not proving satisfactory, the president said, indicating compulsory regulation was creeping up on the war agenda.

ference to reconcile differences with the previously approved house bill.

Dollars For Ballots.

While the revenue bill was being put on in the center ring, there was a sideshow attraction that kept southern states in a dither. The poll tax, unique and historic requisite to voting in eight southern states, was under attack again. The house at length passed a measure outlawing the tax, sent it to the senate where, some senators predicted, it would be "filibustered to death."

States' rights representatives fought bitterly, contending the poll tax was a right of a state to prescribe its own voting system. Proponents of the legislation, some southerners among them, said the tax discriminates against the Negro, is not an important revenue producer.

Boom On the Street.

It was a little late, but along with rising prices and rising wages, the stock market got the fever, too. The million-share days were back on Wall street; brokers scanned the war communiques, Washington news, watched the market climb highest since last December. In one week, the average of all shares gained a total of $2.55.

Some financial men laid the improvement to the apparent settlement of the national revenue legislation, to the senate's decision to cut the corporation tax rate from 50 per cent to 40 per cent. Others said increased trading by non-professionals and the advances in raw materials issues indicated an "inflation market."

Whatever the cause, Wall street had no illusions about the future. All agreed that the government's drive to keep surplus money going into war bonds would be an effective check against a market even remotely resembling that of 1928-29.

Friendly Aliens.

To 600,000 Italian aliens in this country, U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle handed an anniversary present on Oct. 12, the birthday of one of Italy's most illustrious sons—Christopher Columbus.

Effective Oct. 19, Biddle said, Italian aliens no longer will be classed as "enemy aliens." From then on they will be free to "participate in the war effort without the handicaps that have hampered them up to now." Biddle paid tribute to Italians here and in Italy, said they would combine to hasten the collapse of Fascism, the defeat of Mussolini.

The order meant, among other things, that Italian aliens may have back their guns, short-wave radio receivers and cameras, surrendered to the government at roundup time a few months ago.

Tough Touhy.

"We will not take chances. We'll talk to Touhy and his pals in the morgue."

Those grim quotes, from Chicago's chief of detectives, last week carried Americans in general and Chicagoans in particular back a decade, to the wild days of Cicero, Ill., of Al Capone, of Machine-Gun Jack McGurn.

This time is was Roger Touhy, one of Chicago's most desperate ex-gangsters, who, in the best gangland tradition, had led six other fellow convicts over the walls of Joliet prison.

But as the week drew to an end Touhy—serving 99 years for kidnaping—and his pals hadn't come close enough to talk—and they weren't in the morgue.

At Home

Biggest Tax Bill.

In 1943, the nation will have an income of 120 billion dollars (compared to 110 billion in 1942, 40 billion in 1932) and purchasable goods available will amount to 70 billion dollars (compared to 80 billion in 1942.)

So last week congress—hoping it had nailed down the rising cost of living with the anti-inflation bill—prepared to soak up the biggest portion of the 50 billion dollars excess income for 1943.

Keystone of the effort was the new 26 billion dollar tax bill, passed by the senate after months of consideration and sent to con-

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Dorothy Gish and Louis Calhern are getting their wish, which was to appear together in another comedy after 800 performances with a touring company of Clarence Day's American stage classic, "Life With Father."

The new play, announced by Herman Shumlin, will be "The Great Big Doorstep," from the Southern novel by E. P. O'Donnell. Rehearsals have begun and Shumlin expects to have it on Broadway this month. It will be the producer's last offering before going into the army.

Miss Gish and Calhern wound up their tour as Father and Mother Day by relieving Howard Lindsey and Dorothy Stickney, who also is Mrs. Lindsey, while the latter took their annual vacation from the Broadway production. "Life With Father," you know, just goes on and on. It had its New York premiere Nov. 8, 1939, and the red-headed Day boys always are getting too old for their roles and have to be replaced.

BEING Mr. and Mrs. Day was fun for the team of Gish and Calhern, and it was fun for me to hear them tell of their travels, over a midnight snack at Sardi's. They traveled by car, and people didn't know what to make of the four red-haired youngsters.

"My dear," said Dorothy (to me, but it's a speech habit of hers), "do you know that in some of those towns it took 20 minutes to get the play going? People weren't used to listening to normal voices from normal-sized people."

To which Calhern added: "In one Louisiana town there hadn't been a play in 20 years. We noticed that the house was sold out except for the first three rows. We asked why, and were told the seats were too close to the screen!"

BOTH hope the film version of L.W.F. won't be distorted with a murder or kidnaping, or otherwise standardized. "I think the play proves," said Dorothy, "that some of our plot ideas are wrong. The story is simple and real, with just a thread of continuity over getting father baptized. I think, too, that some of the best movies are those with little dialogue."

Calhern, tall and substantially built, and possessor of a miniature mustache, is best known as a heavy in the movies. "People are surprised to see me in comedy," he said. "They forget I started out in burlesque."

Dorothy has sparkling blue eyes, slightly reddish hair, is five feet three and objects to being called small. "I'm normal size," she insists.

Abroad

Pacific Hot-Spot.

From the American viewpoint, hottest front in this many-sided war is in the humid, jungle-land of the Solomon islands. Here is the Pacific crossroad which, in American hands, anchors the present offensive against Japan's stolen territory: in Japanese hands it presents a grave, constant threat to Australia.

From this hot-spot, still American held after two months of air, sea and ground war, came the week's big news—disclosure of the heaviest U. S. Naval losses since Pearl Harbor, and at the same time, another story of brilliant successes by American planes, submarines and surface ships.

Last week-end a Jap task force pushed back into the Solomon waters, sought to land heavy reinforcements, was beaten off with the loss of five warships and a transport. Then in another pell-mell rush of events, Japs stormed the beaches, landed reinforcements, set the stage for a major, decisive battle.

Stalingrad Maneuver.

Ever since Adolf Hitler embarked on his unhappy Russian campaign, a basic feature of the blitzkrieg has been missing: The surprise element, the feint here to cover up a stab there. Over that 1,500-mile front from Leningrad to the Caucasus, the Russians gave him no soft spots to work on.

This week, however, observers wondered if Adolf could be cooking up a surprise, reverting to the subtlety that characterized German operations earlier in the war.

Cause for the speculation was the Stalingrad anti-climax; less than two weeks after Hitler declared confidently in Berlin that Stalingrad would be taken, the unparalleled frontal assault on the city was diminished.

Some observers believed Hitler might be regrouping his forces for a decisive attack in the Leningrad area; others felt that the pinch of winter would turn the attack to the south.

No More Extras.

China asked the silk-hatted diplomats at the Versailles treaty table in 1919 to restore to her the foreign concessions, international settlements and extra-territorial rights seized by western and Asiatic powers in the process of swinging wide the Open Door to China.

Germany's extra-territorial rights were cancelled. A secret Allied treaty with Japan blocked cancellation of the still-intact privileges enjoyed by other countries.

The Japs are on the other side in this war and the China of Chiang Kai-shek rates so well as one of the first and most stalwart defenders of democracy that both Britain and the U. S. last week announced plans for renouncing their extra-territorial rights. Citizens of the two countries thereafter will enjoy no special legal privileges in China.

Signs of Times

The Key West, Fla., Chamber of Commerce issued a tourist bulletin—asking visitors to stay away from Key West. Army and Navy requirements have created a housing shortage.

In Atlantic City, N. J., an applicant for additional gasoline ration books pulled a revolver, fired five shots at rationing board members. He didn't hit anybody, he was arrested, he didn't get additional gasoline.

Because of transportation problems, Detroit schools will abandon all interscholastic athletics after the current football season. Substitute: A compulsory physical fitness program for the 52,000 students.

In Short

Rejected: By the War Labor Board, application of 115,000 Ford Motor company employes for a 12½-cent an hour wage boost.

Left: By Henry Wefer, 76-year-old St. Joseph, Mo., junkyard handyman, $91,000 cash and title to 17,000 acres of Iowa farm land.

Enlisted: Tall, dark and handsome Cesar Romero, movie leading man and one of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors, in the Coast Guard, as apprentice seaman.

Surprised: Candido Yozando, 40-year-old farm worker, arrested in Los Angeles for vagrancy, found to have no draft registration card. Said Candido: "I didn't know about this draft. I didn't know there was a war going on."

Died: Wilbur Glenn Voliva, 72, religious sect leader and self-styled prophet of Zion, Ill., who insisted the world is flat; Mrs. William H. Hamilton, 76, founder of the National Navy club and originator of Navy day, at Greenwich, Conn.

HOLDS SENTENCE IN ASHLAND'S PERJURY CASE

Court Defers Action After Jury Finds Woman Guilty of Testifying Falsely.

ASHLAND—Sentence will not be passed on Mrs. Kathryn Boeh Buzzard, who was found guilty of perjury by a jury in Ashland common pleas court Friday afternoon until after a motion for new trial to be filed by the defendant's attorneys is passed upon. The motion must be filed within three days with Judge Clarence Ahl of Bucyrus, who was assigned to the bench here to hear the trial.

Mrs. Buzzard, who was indicted as Mrs. Boeh, was found guilty of giving false testimony in a divorce she brought against George Boeh and which was heard last August 20 by Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson.

The defendant did not take the stand in her own defense and the state's case consisted mostly of testimony given by witnesses at the divorce hearing in regard to the defendant's acquaintance with her present husband, Edgar Buzzard, which was denied by Mrs. Buzzard.

The jury deliberated nearly two hours receiving the case at 10:44 a. m. yesterday and returning the verdict at 1:56 p. m. with an hour and 23 minutes recess for lunch.

The jury consisted of six men and six women with E. R. Bates as foreman.

A bond of $1,000 posted for Mrs. Buzzard, when she pleaded not guilty on arraignment, was continued.

sured above 28 feet, also a foot less than the 1936 crest.

On the broad expanse of the Potomac opposite the heart of Washington the angry waters are estimated at 18 feet, which is nine feet higher than the level of Constitution avenue, locale of many government buildings.

The city was mobilized and sand bag dikes thrown up around the war and navy departments, near the river banks, after President Roosevelt made a personal tour of the areas that are already under water.

Civilian defense and Red Cross workers were ordered into action and emergency feeding and housing services were set up to care for those forced from their homes. Extra pressure was also put on the sewers to prevent the water backing up into the business area.

Mr. Roosevelt told the District of Columbia commissioners to spare no effort to protect the capital from the turbulent flood waters.

More than 1,000 families were reported homeless in the Shenandoah valley. Scores were forced from their homes in inundated areas of Washington.

The first casualty was reported when a Bethesda, Md., fireman was drowned as he slipped in pushing his automobile and later, Fredericksburg, Va., down the river from Washington reported a possible death toll of 12 persons. It was then reported that a Washingtonian drowned in the river, while a lineman was electrocuted during repair work on a high tension wire near Winchester, Va.

Prattically all communication with Fredericksburg was cut off when the raging Rappahannock river overflowed its banks and city officials called for immediate shipment of serum to avert a threatened epidemic.

The entire city of Cumberland, Md., was paralyzed.

Patients of the Martha Washington hospital at Fredericksburg, were evacuated with the aid of the coast guard when rising waters prevented use of the institution's oil heating system and threatened to isolate the hospital.

INJURY FATAL

Former Galion Man Dies After Seemingly Trivial Accident.

GALION — As a result of a seemingly trivial accident two years ago, James J. Taylor, 43, former resident of Galion, died at his home in Bellefontaine Wednesday night.

While serving as stationary fireman at the junior high school in Bellfontaine, in 1940 a piece of steel was embedded in his finger, necessitating amputation. Infection spread through his system and eventually caused his death, physicians said.

Mr. Taylor was born in Galion in 1899. He is survived by his widow, and three sons, James, Charles, and Robert, all at home. Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. A. L. Ireland, of Bellefontaine and his father, Norton Taylor, of Galion. Funeral services were to be held this afternoon in Bellefontaine.

MANSFIELD BUSINESS IN REVIEW

LIFE OF TIRE IS INCREASED BY FIRESTONE

Inspection Program Meets U. S. Rationing Demands; New Treatments Used.

In line with the recommendation of the Baruch committee, it will be necessary for every American motorist to have his tires inspected every 60 days by an authorized agency as a measure to conserve our critically deficient supply of rubber.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber company through its nationwide dealers and stores organization has inaugurated a special tire inspection and extra mileage plan which provides tire protection that helps the car owner to utilize every available mile that his tires possess.

The plan incorporates a three-point program which provides every essential service plus two new tire protection features developed especially to prolong tire life during the wartime emergency.

The first point in the program is the removal of tacks, glass and other foreign objects from the tire tread and body. After a thorough-going inspection of the general condition of the tires "on the wheel", they are then rotated scientifically from wheel to wheel at regular mileage intervals to insure even wear and preclude the possibility of the car being forced out of service because of premature failure of any one tire that might have been subjected to more than its share of wear and tear.

As the second step in the program, the tread and sidewalls of each tire are thoroughly treated with Firestone extra mileage preservative. This is a new liquid product that seals the cracks in the rubber and protects the tire from the checking effect of heat, light and other similar causes of deterioration.

To safeguard against possibility of injury from being run flat should a tire be punctured, the third step in the plan is the injection of Firestone Puncture Seal in each inner tube. This newly developed fluid automatically seals leaks and punctures caused by nails, tacks and small pieces of glass.

Almost equally important is the fact that this fluid air-proofs the inside of the tube, preventing air leakage through the porous rubber of older tubes. This is of major importance in helping to maintain correct air pressure.

Following this examination and competent preventive tire maintenance program, an official Firestone tire inspection certificate is given to the car owner and provision is made to notify him when his next inspection is due.

Every Piece of New Furniture To Be Sold By M. Don White, Inc.

Studios to Continue With Drapery, Upholstery Slipcover Shops.

Some weeks ago M. Don White, Inc., conducted an auction sale to create space in studios at 14 North Walnut street, for upholstery, drape and slip-cover shops which had to be moved to 21 North Weldon avenue to accommodate the 100 per cent defense program of the Clyridon Manufacturing company.

Due to the pressing of these defense needs Mr. White was unable to complete many fine pieces of new upholstered furniture such as sofas, lounges, chairs and occasional pieces in time for the auction.

These pieces now are to go on sale starting Monday, and continuing through Saturday, at 33⅓ per cent discount from the regular ceiling prices. All pieces are now merchandise of the finest quality and true in design and will be shown only at M. Don White, Inc., 14 North Walnut street.

This company will continue in the upholstery, drapery and slipcover business only, for the duration of the war. Although Mr. White will not be able to devote his full time to interior decorating he will at all times have those in his employ competent to care for the patron's desires.

Those associated with him in the studio will be happy to help any customer and Mr. White will, for the duration, be able to give time by appointment to his interior decorating business. His time now is taken up with defense work as manager of the Clyridon Manufacturing company.

Sunday's News-Journal will present a list of merchandise which it is necessary for M. Don White, Inc., to dispose of in order to create more workroom space. These pieces not only must be sold—they will be sold.

Living room or upholstered furniture is frozen at the source under federal regulations and cannot be obtained after Nov. 1. This makes next week's sale doubly important to the home owner desirous of refurnishing one or more rooms.

White wishes to impress the home-owning public with the fact that his time-tested firm is continuing in business, but for the war period featuring only the upholstery, drapery and slip-cover studios at the accustomed address —14 North Walnut.

The accompanying photograph presents an ideal living arrangement as designed by M. Don White, Inc., which is closing out all furniture pieces next week but will continue, during the war, with drapery, upholstery and slipcover studios at 14 North Walnut street.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Carolyn stared so long at me in utter bewilderment, that I realized her terror of the "collegiate gangster" and robbed her of the power to reason for herself.

"Why, that's right," she said 'Rico hasn't been able to see him or write to him, since the day you took me back to Dalemont, has he?"

'He hasn't been able to communicate with anybody," I told her, 'nor will he ever again be able to tell anybody anything."

'Oh, oh!" she exclaimed "Then I don't have to try to see anybody except the people you want me to see'

"Never again," I told her emphatically.

"But, Auntie Madge," she said shamefacedly, "if you heard everything, you know that Rico told his friend something I cannot tell you, something horrible It's not about Marion, but I'll die rather than tell it. And if Rico's friend knows it, he'll tell it unless I can see him"

'Listen to me, foolish child'" I said "I am not asking you anything about your secret Sometime you will tell me about it because you will realize I can help you keep it. But I want you to exercise your brain, which that gangster seems to have hypnotized.

"In the first place it is most unlikely that he has told his friend anything. He was simply threatening you. In the second place, whom would his friend tell if he did know?

Madge's Suspicion Confirmed.

"In the third place, don't you know how utterly untrustworthy these men are? Do you imagine he would keep your secret, if he did not choose to do so, no matter what commands of yours he obeyed? All those gangsters want is to get you in their power, as they have Marion"

"Marion!" she said. 'If I only could die to get her back!'

The cry and the poignant suffering in her eyes confirmed my long-held suspicion that Marion had not been kidnaped, but had gone away voluntarily, to shield Carolyn from the effects of something discreet, if not worse, the girl had done.

But I knew that now was not the time to question Carolyn on that point, especially as I was not sure that Marion had gone away to divert danger from Carolyn Other threats—against her mother, for instance—might have been held over her.

So I answered Carolyn quietly, still holding her hands firmly.

I think any one of us would be willing to do that," I said, "but God willing, I am sure she will be rescued without that if we all work together"

I paused significantly, and she said promptly'

"I promise you, word of honor not make you any more trouble'

"You cannot know how that relieves my mind" I told her "And I hope you mean you will not try to see that friend of Rico."

'I've had my lesson Auntie Madge," she said, "a far better one than you can imagine. I'm in your hands now, and I'm going to obey you in everything, not even try to decide anything by myself And sometime, I promise you, I will tell you my secret."

"I shall be ready to hear you and help you at any time," I told her. "And now shall we tell my father you are ready to go back to Mrs. Underwood's home?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BE READY FOR BOTH

ONE OF the most unwise things done by fair average players during the auction is doubling the opponents for business when they have reached the only declaration which seems beatable. Frequently it chases them into some other contract which they make Except in the rarest cases, it does not pay to double one declaration unless you are prepared to double that in which they may seek refuge.

South thought he could beat 3-No Trumps with his solid spade suit, which he could if he had let it ride. He learned to rue such a double, however.

Against the 5-Diamonds North properly led his spade 2 to the A and, when the diamond 10 came to his K he repeated the suit. West ruffed, gave up the diamond Q to the A, ruffed a third spade and dropped the last trump. Four hearts furnished a club discard, so that only two trump tricks were lost.

That contract could have been beaten only if North had led a club originally, and repeated the suit each time he won a trump trick. But who would have expected him to do that after the club opening bid?

Rams Defeat Birds In Homcoming Game

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

From Galion comes the word that Coach Bob Scheffer believes there is a possibility that the high school's entire basketball schedule may be cancelled this winter because of gasoline rationing.

Now this is not a new word, and not entirely original with the cage mentor of the Orangemen. It merely brings the problem closer home.

Present restrictions on travel are bad enough, forcing football teams to travel in private cars, but most of the high school gridders will be through with their autumnal chores by the time the gas rationing goes into effect Nov. 22.

But private cars, regardless of how many are available, won't be able to travel far on four gallons a week. That's what the basketball teams will have to confend with.

If we do make trips, we're stuck, alas,
We can't get home on four gals. of gas.

On Mansfield's recent football trip to Sandusky, Athletic Director Harry Mehock asked Blue Streak Coach Wally Glenwright about basketball plans.

"I don't know whether we'll make any trips, or whether we'll even play," was Wally's frank response.

And just a week ago Coach Earl Hoker of Niles told Mehock: "I don't know what we're going to do."

State High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend seems to think that something will be done to straighten out the transportation problem for the basketball season, and that high schools will go along with something near their usual programs.

Meanwhile Canton McKinley is talking about cutting out three long basketball trips, including one to Mansfield. And any school that cuts out trips can expect to have visiting schools cut out trips too.

Incidentally, for the first time in the modern McKinley-Mansfield cage rivalry, only one game has been booked this year instead of the usual home-and-home schedule.

* * *

Maybe Mr. Townsend is whistling in the dark. I can't picture the government lifting the gas ration rule to permit trips by high school basketball teams.

Dick Bader Scores on Opening Kickoff

Gross and Hammer Also Add Up Points For Madison Eleven

A BOMBESHELL hit Ram hill last night, and Madison high school, celebrating its homecoming, rode home to victory on the blast.

The bombshell? The opening kickoff! With Loudonville booting the first ball, intentionally out of bounds, but the ball didn't go out of bounds.

It bounded around there for a few seconds on the 20-yard line before Dick Bader picked it up at the sideline, reversed his field and found plenty of running room.

The Loudonville team, following the ball, had been sucked over to the one side of the field, and Bader just ran around them. In mid-field he ran into trouble, but there were some Rams around to furnish the blocking.

And along about the enemy's 20-yard line he ran into some more trouble, and there were more Rams to do some more blocking. So Bader just pranced the remaining 20 yards for a touchdown.

A touchdown on the opening kickoff! Something that happens once in some five or ten thousand football games over the land. And it was homecoming night at Madison, and it happened to the Rams.

What more do you want, brother? And sister? An extra point? Just wait a second and we'll have it for you. Captain Harold Hammer cocks that trusty right arm, heaves a pass out into the flat at the left, and Gross gathers it in for the point.

A very nice start on a very nice ball game which ends up with a 20-0 victory for the Rams, with the Madison second team playing at least half of the last quarter and doing very well for themselves.

The Rams were cocky last night. They took out the book, laid it on the greensward, and went to town from there. Only penalties kept the score from being larger, and there were times when even penalties couldn't slow up those Rampaging Rams.

There was the time, for instance, when Loudonville kicked out of bounds on its own 30-yard line late in the first period. On the first play Gross took the ball on a reverse and scampered over the goal line. But the whistle blew and the Rams were penalized five yards for backfield in motion. That was the end of the quarter.

On the first play of the second quarter, behind as pretty an exhibition of blocking as you'll ever hope to see, Gross trotted 35 yards for the second touchdown of the game, and it was 13-0.

Marietta, Loudonville halfback, ran wild through most of the third quarter, out in the middle of the field, and the Ram offensive was halted for a time.

But came the fourth period and the Rams weren't long in taking charge of the ball game again. On the first play of the final stanza, Poston recovered a Loudonville fumble on the Bird three-yard line. On the next play the Birds recovered a Madison fumble, and after failing to make the necessary yardage, punted out to Gross who galloped 25 yards to a first down on the Loudonville four-yard line.

A penalty put the Birds back on their one-foot line where Hammer skirted end for the touchdown. Hammer tossed a pass to Poston for the point and it was 20-0.

* * *

Just a few plays later the Rams sent in their scrubs, and the reserves not only held Loudonville, they branched out on an offensive of their own, even completing a forward pass in midfield. And then booting over the Loudonville goal line as the game ended.

It was a great game, and tougher than the score would indicate. The count in first downs was: Madison 7, Loudonville 6.

Rickey Predicts Cards Win Again

DENVER—(AP)—There has been some talk in baseball circles that Branch Rickey, general manager of the world champion Cardinals, plans to join the Brooklyn Dodgers or the St. Louis Browns.

Well, he won't talk much about that—but he said this last night:

The Cardinals will win the National league pennant in 1943, probably by beating the New York Giants.

In reply to a question concerning St. Louis rumors that he would quit the Cardinals and become affiliated with the reorganized American league Browns, Rickey said:

"If any man knows what I am going to do next season, he has me bested because I don't know myself."

MEET AERIAL ATTACK

EVANSTON, Ill.—(INS)—A grim squad of 34 Northwestern Wildcats, prepared to meet a strong aerial attack, was en route today to Dearborn, Mich., where they will stop over for a workout before proceeding to Ann Arbor for the Michigan game. Defense against the Wolverine passing attack was stressed in the final Wildcat workout yesterday.

Simpson Wins Over Pioneers

Bulldogs Score on Four Plays After Kickoff.

John Simpson's Bulldogs retained their jinx over Johnny Appleseed yesterday afternoon at Stadium field with a 27-0 victory over the Pioneers.

It was a case of Simpson speed against Appleseed power, and the Bulldogs had enough swift in their heels to run for four touchdowns.

Simpson received the first kickoff and in four plays had manufactured a touchdown. The Bulldogs returned the K. O. to their own 34 yard line. On the first play Otto Schmidt, brother of the Mansfield's Tygers' Roland, stepped off 23 yards around left end. Then Ollie Cline rambled around right end for 12 yards. Thomas hit the line for six and Otto sprinted, behind perfect interference, for the remaining 25 yards to the goal line.

A pass for point was incomplete and it was 6-0.

Simpson came right back in the same period for its second score, blocking a punt and recovering the ball on the Appleseed 12 yard line. Otto raced around end for the touchdown and Thomas tossed a pass to Cline for the point and it was 13-0.

Appleseed held then until the final period when Simpson broke loose for two more touchdowns.

On the first play of the last quarter a Simpson punt went out of bounds on the Appleseed 20 yard line. And when the Pioneers punted back, Cline grabbed the oval on the 50 yard stripe and raced over the goal line. But the officials ruled he stepped out of bounds on the 18.

So what did Cline do but jog around end for that 18 yards and a touchdown. Woodberry, subbing for Thomas, hit the line for the extra point and it was 20-0.

Paul Schmidt, no relation to Otto and Roland, electrified the fans six plays later when he intercepted an Appleseed pass and raced 55 yards for a touchdown. Thomas hit the line for the point and it was 27-0.

Given the job of acting captain last night, Jim Burrage played a great game on both offense and defense to inspire Mansfield high Tygers to an upset 6-0 victory at Springfield.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

The Whistler, or Golden-Eye duck, really does whistle, but with his wings and not his beak. His short, stiff pinions cut the air like a knife, making a noise which Audubon reported could be heard a half mile away.

* * *

The time when cats see at their best is twilight, because their pupils expand far more than ours, and are sensitive to the ultra-violet rays of the spectrum. But after dark they are just as blind as we are.

* * *

Of the four-legged animals, the Cheetah has the greatest turn of speed. It can accelerate to 45 miles an hour in 2 seconds, and can travel for a short distance at 80 miles per hour.

Take good care of your guns, they're scarce you know, by thorough protection both inside and out. Yuncker's carry a complete assortment of cleaning kits, oils and greases, as well as gun cases for practically any gun, in wide variety.

* * *

An unanswered question. Have spruce grouse really diminished . . . or just got smart? Old Indians say the birds once lived in large flocks, from which enough could be taken to keep a tribe in meat for weeks. But now the largest groups that are seen number only five or six.

* * *

A man from Middlefield, Ohio says he has seen a white pheasant, accompanied by an ordinary ring neck, and wonders if the white birds are common. According to authorities, Albino pheasants are not a distinct breed but are a freak of nature which marks many kinds of animals and birds and are not common.

Recovered Fumble Leads to Score

March 27 Yards For Only Marker, Lose Another On Clipping Penalty

MANSFIELD 6, SPRINGFIELD 0. Write it down in big black letters. Regardless of what happens on other gridirons in this upsetting season, Mansfield high school's surprise victory last night at Springfield will always be regarded here as the big upset of the 1942 gridiron campaign.

All the advance dope pointed to an easy Springfield victory. In fact no one would have been much surprised if the Wildcats had duplicated the 40-0 score by which Mansfield defeated them a year ago. Coach Jim McDonald had a good team, a veteran team, with power in the line, speed to burn in the backfield, one of the best forward passers in the state, Brooks Lawrence, and some ends to catch those passes.

They had just defeated Portsmouth 27-6, and the 'Cats looked like they had hit their stride. And Mansfield's green Tygers looked like they had hit their stride too, a stride that called for fumbles and touchdowns handed gratis to the opposing team, and generally disappointing play.

But it was a different Mansfield team last night, a battling team that tackled hard and blocked hard, and which held the upper hand through most of the ball game.

It took a break to pave the way for the Tygers' touchdown, but even then Coach Paul Snyder's supercharged battlers had a long way to go to score.

Midway in the second period Springfield had a ball-up on signals, leading to a fumble which was recovered by Jim Burrage on the Wildcat 27-yard line.

That little bit of encouragement was all the Tygers needed. Zivkoff hit off tackle for four yards, and Boyce smacked the line for three yards and again for one. With fourth down and two to go, Schmidt tore away for four yards and a first on the 15.

Zivkoff picked up a yard, and Burrage, on an end-around, got five. Mansfield was penalized five yards for too much time in the huddle. Schmidt got a yard, and then Burrage on another end-around fought his way to the two-yard line for a first down.

Boyce plunged over for a touchdown with only three minutes left to play in the first half.

Mansfield missed another touchdown when Boyce intercepted a pass and raced 65 yards and over the goal line. But the play was called back for a clipping penalty.

Springfield never got inside the 20-yard line, and reached that point only once in the ball game. The Wildcats piled up three first downs in midfield early in the game, and that constituted their only sustained drive of the night.

First downs were Springfield 9, Mansfield 8.

It was a team victory. Every member of the Tyger team got in there and battled all the way, inspired by the fighting example given by Acting Captain Jim Burrage who sparkled on both offense and defense.

HE OUTROPES TEXAS ROPERS

AUSTIN, Tex. —(U.P.)— Texas is the famed land of cowboys but the champion rope twirler at the University of Texas comes from Berkeley, Cal.

He is Bob Rogers, studying sculpture and painting in the university's School of Fine Arts. A former rodeo star, Rogers with his rope tricks has been the subject of several movie shorts. Explosion Wrecks Hearth of Pittsburgh Steel Plant.

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— An explosion wrecked the open hearth department of the Duquesne works of Continental Roll & Steel Foundry company at Coraopolis, Pa., early today injuring approximately 45 workers.

Five men were treated at Sewickley Valley hospital while about 40 others were given aid at the scene of the blast. Of those treated at the hospital all were said to have suffered only minor injuries.

The explosion ripped a sheet metal roof from the brick building housing the furnaces, but the resultant flames were brought under control within a short time.

Witnesses said the explosion was caused by the spilling of molten metal into a pool of water.

26 SCOUTS GET TRAINING TESTS

They'll Tackle Obstacle Course At Camp, Be Quizzed on Other Training.

Twenty-six Boy Scouts and leaders of the Emergency Training corps will tackle the obstacle course today at 7:30 p. m. set up at Camp Avery Hand, jr., under the direction of Paul Snyder, Frank Stahl and Jack Augustine.

This is the first mobilization of the Emergency corps and they will be forced to encounter obstacles similar to those found in war times over a half-mile course, Snyder said. These Scouts, who will be senior messengers in civilian defenses, have been training since last December and have completed 111 hours class room work at the Scout headquarters.

The corps is divided into five patrols. Leaders are: Patrol One, J. J. Swisher, Roger Masquelier, assistant; Two, Lional Culp, James Rice, assistant; Three, Clayton Schroff, Paul James, assistant; Four, S. A. Seif Lexington; Five, Frank O'Neal of Bellville.

Tests in all types of training they received, including first aid and stretcher bearing, will be given in the practice session which is to last until midnight. As a reward, refreshments will be served afterwards, Snyder said.

for the school making the best showing next week, final week of the campaign.

The Field grade school at Fostoria, with only 143 pupils, appeared to be leading all the schools in the state today in per pupil collections.

The school reported collections totaling 87 tons, which represented 1,216 pounds per pupil.

"This undoubtedly is the highest per pupil collection for any Ohio school and it might be the highest in the nation," said A. A. Hoopingarner, vice chairman of the state salvage committee.

A pupil from the winning Ohio school will be chosen to christen a Liberty ship. The competition closes Oct. 24.

THREE YOUTHS GET PROBATION

Court Acts After Lecture by Postal Inspector to Cleveland Boys.

Three youths who have been a headache during the past four days for police and juvenile officers have been placed on probation by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer.

Two Cleveland boys, 12 and 14, who confessed the theft of a mail bag at Lexington, were lectured yesterday by a postal inspector from Marion and were placed on probation for six months to F. A. Maudalfino of Cleveland. Juvenile authorities from Cleveland were to take the boys home today.

The 14-year-old youth escaped from Juvenile Officer Ralph Carroll in court Thursday and was recaptured after a three-hour search.

A 14-year-old Mansfield boy who fled the county detention home earlier in the week by sliding down a rope made from a sheet was paroled to his father and told to report to the Richland county juvenile office monthly. The boy will go to the home of friends at Peoria, O., to live. Juvenile Officer Carroll said.

CHAPTER XXIII

She sat there looking at him, her heart beating fast, her eyes fascinated by thoughts and feelings not quite formed.

McCormick smiled. "If there's a waiting list, just put me on it. I'll wait my turn. I've never been good before at waiting for what I wanted. I've always gone after it and gotten it—the hard way, usually. I have known many girls and I've often wondered why you topped them all . . . You're my peculiar fixation, the way you look, the way you walk and speak and use your hands, and yours is a fine and lovely mind . . . For two years I've carried in my own mind the firm belief that one day you and I would have the finest love affair of this or any year."

"You're offering me a love affair?"

"Not in the popular sense of the word. I want to marry you when this war is over. You're the only girl I've ever wanted to marry. You're the only girl I've ever known who could go on being exciting and interesting to me. But for now I just want to see you . . . I had to say this, Temple. I had to be sudden and violent. Else we'd have gone back to the old way of no understanding each other."

She was cold. The fire did not warm her. She shook her head slowly.

"What does that mean, Temple?"

She looked up. "The times have made you honest with me. They've made me—silent. You need not be concerned about our going back. You can never go back. That's one very important thing I've learned."

* * *

She and Jud could never go back to last May.

"You're not happy."

"I'm not free. I should have told you that immediately. I'm not free. I can't see you again."

"You're seeing me now. You're seeing me today."

"Then we'll have to make it all today."

He nodded. "All for today then." He smiled. "Very well. We're going to a wedding at 5. Not a young couple. They're quite middle-aged, in fact. It seems she's been putting him off for years. He's a superior officer and I'm supposed to be in evidence."

"But I'm not dressed for a wedding." Temple did not want to go to a wedding. She did not want to hear the same words that had been said over Jud and her, repeated over other people, strangers.

"You gave me today, you know. I'll take you back to your place and pick you up. The wedding is in Alexandria." He passed his hand over his forehead. "Ive said my piece that has been in rehearsal for a pretty long time. Tell me about you after I get some wine and cigarets. It seems to me we did this before, had wine and a cigaret.

When he returned from the dining-room with wine and cigarets, she was standing beside the fireplace. They stood there together with glasses in their hands.

Temple said, "Keep them flying."

"You feel very strongly about that, don't you?"

"I want to live in a world where there are not so many good-byes, when there is peace and order and the right to be an individual. Isn't that why they're flying?"

"Don't ask me. Tell me."

"Then that's why they're flying. It's one of the few things I'm sure of now."

* * *

He looked over the rim of his glass. His eyes were smiling. "This is the closest I've been to kissing you except the last time we were together."

She smiled. "You may not kiss me."

"I didn't say I was going to. I won't until you want it as much as I. You're my cross as well as my fixation, Temple."

"You're . . ."

"I'm the complement of you. That's the one thing I'm sure of. And about the future—well, I'm neither a blind optimist nor a dreary pessimist. I think we'll win because eventually we'll be able to deliver the goods. And after we've won I hope we're simpler, humbler people than we were before. It's going to be tough on those who've lived on superficial, passing sensations and waiting for somebody to die and leave you his money. It's going to be mighty tough on those who've lived for the gratification of personal wants and accumulating useless possessions. They're not flying so that old international disputes over boundary lines and tariffs and personal grudges and graft, all silenced now, can start all over again. They're not flying for financiers or for any political party or for any royal family. They're flying so that little people can live in peace and be individuals."

"It isn't difficult for you to speak of your patriotism."

"Is it difficult for a preacher to speak of God? It is often very difficult and embarrassing for his flock to hear him speak of God. I'm not as confident as I sound, Temple, or, perhaps, as I look. This past year of training and rubbing shoulders with all classes of people, of getting away from the quiet walls of a university has opened by eyes to many of my own shortcomings. You can't rub shoulders with the masses and not feel small and humble.

"The humility that the army will teach thousands of cocksure boys will be good for them. It taught me humility; it disciplined me and it gave me great respect for men who've been in the army for years, unheard of until now. In the army your days are hard and you go to bed early. Some nights you lie awake and think back. The 'break' in your life makes the thinking back clearer. And you think of your mistakes and the things you wish you had done, but didn't do.

"I've heard so many of the boys say, 'When this is over, I'm not going back to the thing I was doing before the war. I was making out okay, but it wasn't what I wanted to do and I didn't have the nerve to get out while I was making money and having a fairly good time.' There are a lot of angles to it, but the fact remains that many of them were sidetracked and they are going back to their original idea when this thing is over . . . But I'd rather talk about you."

"There isn't very much to say about me. I'm not being coy or modest. It's true. There isn't very much to say about me. More than ever it's a man's world and women have been put back in their original place."

"I don't know about that. The women of England are doing the work of men very well."

"Yes, I know. And more and more I want to do something. But what I meant was that women are in the background now. The men are the fighters and the women feel that they want to be soft and feminine again with men. They may work in a factory all day, but at night they are more conscious of their femininity than they were before this happened."

"You don't like your job, do you?"

* * *

She looked up with a start. "I don't dislike it. I don't ever think about it. It doesn't mean anything. You never have the satisfaction of finishing one thing and starting something new. You do the same thing, typing and filing. It goes on forever."

She looked at her watch. "If I'm going to a wedding . . ."

"I'd forgotten how long it takes a girl to dress."

When he returned with her jacket and held it for her, his hands lingered ever so briefly upon her shoulder. But the moment was long enough for her to reach back in her memory to recall her first realization of the humanness and warmth of his touch. Harry, then Jud, then Harry again . . . Only two, the only two in her life.

He turned her around.

"Temple, one of these days your reserve is going to let go. It will be as though a lid were blowing off a boiling vessel."

"It did. But I put the lid back on and turned the fire down low."

"You're warning me . . . But you're running away from something. Don't take too long a time to discover what it is you're running away from. Get the regrets over—"

"Haven't you?"

When he left her at the boarding house he told her he would be back at 3.

As she took a shower and changed from the brown wool dress to a black afternoon dress, she thought, "This is his day. I'll give it to him . . . He's in love with me . . . Dr. McCormick who isn't Dr. McCormick any more. All that is the same about him is his touch that I remembered. Not the Dr. McCormick whom all the girls at home used to wonder about but a positive, commanding man in uniform, standing beside that fireplace, telling me all those things about himself and the way he feels about me, telling me to get my regrets over soon."

Regrets? . . . In the mirror saw her color rise. She had no regrets. She loved Jud. She loved him deeply. Jud who had given her so many highlights, the Jud of last May, the dream they had had then . . . Dream . . . In Florida Jud had said, "That was a dream, Temple" . . . No, it was not a dream. It was real. It had happened.

McCormick was waiting for her and his eyes, amused, followed her as she walked down the steps. He did not look at all like a man who has told a girl that he loved her and who in turn has been told she had nothing to give him but her silence.

How odd it was for her to think now of the rocks on the coast of Maine, the rocks that seemed to say to the pounding surf, "You have slashed at me for centuries, but still I stand and I will continue to stand." Harry, straight, arresting, his overcoat over his arm, reminded her so queerly of the rocks along her favorite coast . . . while to think of Jud made her think of the placid surf and the blue skies over Florida.
